

The ACLAB11 will be held Online in Tokyo, Japan, on November 5-6, 2021

Aim of the Conference

The Asian Conference for Lactic Acid Bacteria (ACLAB) is an annual event which is one of the activities supported by the Asian Federation of Societies for Lactic Acid Bacteria (AFSLAB). In 2021, Japan is honored to host the ACLAB-11.

The aim of the conference is to provide opportunities for researchers from both academia and industry to communicate the latest scientific topics on lactic acid bacteria and related microbes. Although we can not come together face-to-face, we are planning a Get-Together Party via Zoom in the evening of Nov 5. Your active participation will be greatly appreciated.

Scientific Program

The program will include invited keynote lectures and symposium speeches providing overviews of state-of-the-art developments in selected scientific areas, and oral presentation as well as sponsor presentations that cover the most recent advances in LAB research and application. The scientific areas that will be covered are

- Probiotics, Prebiotics, and Postbiotics
- Fermentation and Foods
- Microbiome
- Host-Microbe Interaction
- Genetics and Genomics
- Physiology and Metabolism
